

The South City Multi-Sport Club is a program under the South City Revitalization Council, Incorporated (SCRC). This organization was created by Loranne Ausley, Jennifer Kilinski, Courtney Atkins of Whole Child Leon, and Adam Faurot of Titus with the purpose of encouraging children living on the Southside of Tallahassee, Florida to become physically active.

The South City Multi-Sport Club, a USA Triathlon recognized club, provides the children the opportunity to participate in sports in which they never thought they could be successful. This program introduces these children to a new array of community people, endurance sports, water safety and leadership skills that the children may not have otherwise known.

Participation in the South City Multi-Sport Club provides children with opportunities, such as enhanced self-confidence, access to college scholarships and opportunities that they may have never dreamed of. Activities that are the main focus of the program are swimming, biking and long distance running.

All of the activities, training and mentoring conducted on behalf of the South City Multi-Sport Club are preparing the children to participate in a Youth Triathlon at the end of the summer.
